HOBBS

Elizabeth Hobbs who was the wife of Samuel Davis, was the daughter of Francis Hobbs who patented land on the Rappahannock River in 1650 naming Elizabeth, as Elizabeth Davis among his headrights. The land records do not show when he first appeared in Virginia and because of the destruction of the records of Isle of Wight County prior to 1661, it is impossible to learn when he first settled in the county, but in one of the few early papers preserved dated in 1647 he makes what appears to be a deed of gift to Joseph Weekes and John Payne. They probably married daughters or were grandsons of the said Francis Hobbs, for they inherited his Rappahannock holdings and his name appears as a given name among their descendants. He represented Isle of Wight County as a member of the House of Burgesses in 1654-55, dying between this date and the year 1661, when the records of the County begin. His son Captain Francis Hobbs in his will dated March 4, 1687 proves that the Elizabeth Davis named as one of his father's headrights was his sister, for he leaves a bequest to his cousins (the word most frequently used in the early records to denote a nephew or niece) John Davis and Alice Davis.

FRANCIS HOBBS

The earliest reference so far found to Francis Hobbs is the deed dated in 1647 in Isle of Wight. The records in the county have been destroyed prior to 1861, except a few early papers which were found loose in the office and recorded by a clerk in 1782; among which is the following:

Francis Hobbs to John Payne and Joseph Weeks, a plantation which he enjoyed by lease upon the Mansemond River -- do make over to the sd. Payne and Weeks and their heirs forever.
Jan. 18, 1647. (Signed with an F.) Bk. A., p. 14.

Francis Hobbs patented 1000 acres on the Rappahannock in 1650 and among the headrights claimed by him was Elizabeth Davis. Cavaliers & Pioneers, p. 196.

(It is possible that Payne and Weeks married daughters of sd. Hobbs, for the name is used as a given name among their descendants and both removed from Isle of Wight to the above patent).

Francis Hobbs died between 1655 the last recorded reference to and the year 1661, when the records begin.

Will of Francis Hobbs: (son of above Francis) to Alice Davis; to my cousin John Davis; to my cousin Margaret Harris; the daughter of John Harris; Brother John Harris Ex.
Wit. John Davis, George Bell, Jr., Thomas Harris.
March 4, 1687. June 9, 1688.

(The old use of the word cousin, meant nephew or neice.)

Francis Hobbs was a member of the House of Burgesses, 1654-55, from Isle of Wight.
